In the letter Shepherd admitted insolvency and his intention to "close my office here and drift away from it all."

The first volley killed Sergeant Olson. A hail of bullets riddled and killed Sergeant Walsh.

Sergeant Conway was shot near the heart. Over fifty shots were fired in the fight before a garage on the Western Highway by which the Dixie Highway enters Chicago from the south.

Sergeant Sweeney alone pursued the gangsters afoot and fought Genna in a private battle, waged a duel of shooting at each other at every step. Genna fell dying. BRITISH LORDS TOLD OF SLAVE TRADING IN SECTIONS OF EMPIRE

LONDON, June 13.—Rather a tone of uneasiness on the question of slave raiding in several parts of the world, including a suggestion that parts of the British Empire might be affected, was displayed in the House of Lords recently when several peers made demands for facts concerning the slave trade activity.

Earl Buxton started the ball rolling by asking the government whether the report upon slavery which the foreign secretary undertook to call for in 1923 had as yet been received, and also whether the League of Nations had asked to be supplied with any available information on the subject of slavery. In northern Africa and the Far East, he said, slave raiding and trading still existed, and it was known, he alleged, that raids had been made in Kenya and the Sudan. Lord Oliver asserted that there was a good deal of information on the subject of slavery in the possession of the government which the public had the right to know. The earl in this connection, said conditions in Abyssinia were much as they had always been and slavery and slave raiding existed there today. Replying for the government, Viscount Cecil explained that the government was eager to the utmost of its power to help in the suppression of slavery in general and slave raids in particular.
